

Observatory of the Sustainable Development Goals in Portuguese Companies

Acknowledgments

Succeeding the purpose of understanding the adoption and implementation of the United Nations 2030 Agenda by Portuguese companies, the Year 2 of the Observatory has kept a strong collaboration with specialists from different areas of knowledge. It was through a broad sharing of knowledge that, in Year 2, a new Report emerged with new data, new reflections, and new ideas. Therefore, we want to thank each individual who helped us develop this work and fulfill the mission of expanding knowledge about the SDGs and the business sector in Portugal.

Firstly, we would like to thank our Advisory Board: Ana Feijó from BPI - Fundação “la Caixa,” António Pires de Lima from BCSD Portugal, Clara Bento from the Fundação Francisco Manuel dos Santos, Gabriela Figueiredo Dias from IESBA - International Ethics Standards Board for Accountants, Gonçalo Matias from Fundação Francisco Manuel dos Santos, Isabel Ucha from Euronext, José Pena do Amaral from BPI - Fundação “la Caixa”, Luís Laginha de Sousa from CMVM - Comissão do Mercado de Valores Mobiliários, Margarida Couto from GRACE - Empresas Responsáveis, Mário Parra da Silva from the UN Global Compact Network Portugal and Nuno Gonçalves from IAPMEI, and their representatives, for your constant involvement in this project and for always adding value with the questions they pose, the insights they bring to our meetings, and their always highly relevant contributions

We thank the Secretary of State for the Presidency of the Council of Ministers, André Moz Caldas, for your willingness to participate in our activities and for your valuable contribution to the content of this Report.

At the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Portugal (Ministério dos Negócios Estrangeiros), we would like to thank Hugo Palma and Núria Neves for their constant involvement, meetings organized to promote debate on this topic and for their connections with various government bodies that made this study much richer. At the General Secretariat of the Presidency of the Council of Ministers (Presidência do Conselho de Ministros), we thank Sérgio Gomes da Silva, Joelma Almeida, Carlos Pereira, and Susana Godinho, who, among their colleagues from the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Portugal, collaborated with our team to facilitate access to knowledge about the plans of the Portuguese Government on the SDGs.

At the General Directorate of Economic Activities (Direção-Geral das Atividades Económicas), we would like to thank Fernanda Dias, Rui Pereira, Alice Rodrigues, Lídia Farropas, Marta Basto, and Sofia Antão for their prompt willingness to meet with us and for sharing the work they develop, as well as their focus on sustainability in Portuguese companies. Thanks to this team, we included the OECD guidelines in our study this year and cross-referenced them with the SDGs.

At Planning and Policy Skills Center and Public Administration Foresight (Centro de Competências da Administração Pública), we thank Paulo Areosa Feio, Ana Costa, and Ana Salvado for their prompt collaboration, sharing of important information, and actively participating in the Observatory activities.

At the National Statistics Institute (INE - Instituto Nacional de Estatística), we would like to thank Cristina Ramos and Ana Simão for sharing information, exchanging ideas, and contributing valuable information on the adoption and monitoring of the SDGs in Portugal as well as the suggestions given for the project.

We also want to thank VdA - Vieira de Almeida & Associados, a partner who has accompanied this Observatory since the beginning. In particular, we would like to acknowledge and thank Margarida Couto, Maria Folque, and Francisco Granja de Almeida for the constant collaboration with our team and their essential contributions to this Report, in particular the legislative table and the correlation table between SDGs and the OECD Guidelines, both included in chapter 2.6.

SDGs and the OECD Guidelines, both included in chapter 2.6.

We thank Rita Seabra and Elisabete Machado from IAPMEI for being crucial elements in connecting with SMEs, sharing knowledge about their reality, and their constant dynamism that challenges us to go further.

We thank Anabela Vaz Ribeiro, from the UN Global Compact Network Portugal, for sharing her perspective on the involvement of the companies with the 2030 Agenda, participating in our activities, and contributing to accelerating this agenda in our country.

We thank João Meneses, from BCSD Portugal, for his consistently clear and disruptive vision, with a deep understanding of the needs and challenges of companies, and for constantly challenging us to broaden our perspective.

We thank Tiago Carrilho, from BCSD Portugal, for his active participation in the events of the Observatory and his contagious energy on sustainability topics.

We thank Ana Cláudia Coelho, from PwC, for the openness with which she shared her perspective of the daily work with companies in their strategic dimensions, with clear directions of the main motivations and needs and concrete answers to urgent questions, as well as her active participation in our events.

We thank André Anacleto, from McKinsey, who shared his vision on barriers and trends in different sustainability themes, with a medium and long-term vision.

We thank Martim Santos, from KPMG, for the practical and direct way he shared his perspective on the SDGs and sustainability in different sectors.

We thank Norma Franco from Ernst & Young, who, with enormous enthusiasm and passion for sustainability issues, conveyed to us the work she has been developing and her current involvement in sustainability issues in various sectors.

We thank Fernanda Freitas for her contribution to this Report and commitment to the SDG theme, as well as her active participation in the events of the Observatory.

We thank Inês Costa from Deloitte for her involvement, enthusiasm, and willingness to participate and contribute to the events of the Observatory.

We would also like to acknowledge and thank students and UCP ALUMNI, Adriana Zani, from the Master's in Applied Management, Alexandra Freire, from the course SDGs: Humanity Great Challenges, and Rui Murteira, from the Lisbon MBA, for their collaboration and commitment to contributing to this Report and the Year 2 event of the Observatory.
